

Summer Solstice 2014

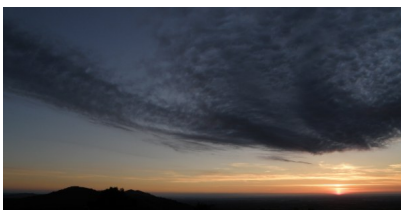

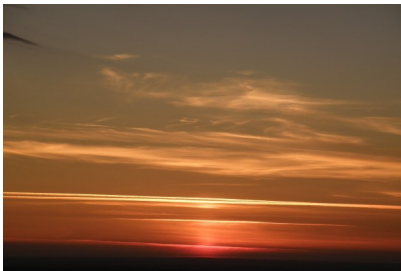

Written by A. Cyclist

Sunday, 22 June 2014 20:52 - Last Updated Thursday, 18 December 2014 21:24

What a difference from 2012 !

Weather forecast was good so set alarm for 3am. After mandatory caffeine infusion, set off on trusty steed to deafening birdsong. The Hollybush car park was almost full, but we cyclists are permitted to use the track to the west - is it my imagination, or was it steeper than last time?

Finally arrived at the top to be greeted by a number of people - some new faces, plus regulars Davey Thom and Mark Stevenson. Not long now until the first rays of the sun appeared in the north-east, above Worcester:

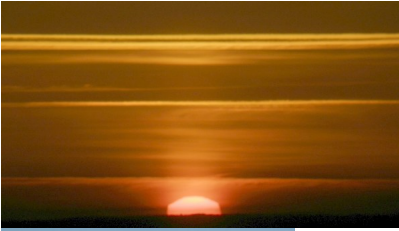

View towards North Hill

Summer Solstice 2014

Written by A. Cyclist

Sunday, 22 June 2014 20:52 - Last Updated Thursday, 18 December 2014 21:24

carhart.com. Hikes with the pagans in the 5 above played by Karle dancing here)