

Centenary of the Armistice - the town remembers and reflects

Written by Steve Glennie-Smith
Sunday, 11 November 2018 20:50 -

The sun shone as a large crowd gathered for the centenary armistice open-air service in Ledbury's High Street this morning, Sunday 11th November 2018.

The names of all 185 men from Ledbury who were killed in the two World Wars were read out.

Centenary of the Armistice - the town remembers and reflects

Written by Steve Glennie-Smith
Sunday, 11 November 2018 20:50 - accompaniment...

Centenary of the Armistice - the town remembers and reflects

Written by Steve Glennie-Smith
Sunday, 11 November 2018 20:50 -

the ceremony personnel and representatives of many of the town's organisations lined up by

Centenary of the Armistice - the town remembers and reflects

Written by Steve Glennie-Smith
Sunday, 11 November 2018 20:50 -

that played the Last Post to signify the beginning of the two

Centenary of the Armistice - the town remembers and reflects

Written by Steve Glennie-Smith
Sunday, 11 November 2018 20:50 -

Many wreaths were then laid by the war memorial.

The service finished when the parade marched past the war memorial.

Centenary of the Armistice - the town remembers and reflects

Written by Steve Glennie-Smith
Sunday, 11 November 2018 20:50 -

Several of the main streets in Ladbury in Bloom hanging baskets...

And many of the houses in the town have been decorated with poppies. The poppies have given so