

Posterity Opens Gallery

Written by John Eager

Sunday, 04 November 2007 10:50 - Last Updated Tuesday, 13 November 2007 21:50

Posterity, supplier of architectural antiques, on the Worcester Road (just past the Eastnor turn on the right) opened a new gallery space this weekend.

Posterity Gallery

After two open evenings hosted by Posterity owner David Urquhart, I visited the new gallery space and was shown around by Mr Trigg, who explained that the idea behind the gallery was to exhibit original, quirky, unrepeatable C20th art and other items.

Posterity Opens Gallery

Written by John Eager

Sunday, 04 November 2007 10:50 - Last Updated Tuesday, 13 November 2007 21:50

Posterity opens gallery, showing the remains of a man who was once a prominent figure in the world of art and culture. The remains are displayed in a museum, and the gallery is open to the public.

Posterity Opens Gallery

Written by John Eager

Sunday, 04 November 2007 10:50 - Last Updated Tuesday, 13 November 2007 21:50

the New Year. I told me they planned to open up the gallery space to other artists and exhibitions in