Collectively between the raffle/street busking/theatre events we made around £750-£800 pounds. We would like to thank all those that contributed to make this such a success.

We want to repeat this format for another similar event in May 2010 (this ties in with the next national Busking Cancer week) and we would also like to spread the busking side of this to other towns in the county. Consequently, we would like to hear from musicians who can give their time to help raise money for worthy charitable causes.

My vision is that we can also create some portable stages at other local events to raise further funding and give up and coming and existing local musicians some recognition at the same time.
