Editor: I asked David to publish this video as I hoped it might be an inspiration to others, myself included. I love the music and how it is worked into the sound of cars and snow and other ambient noises. The music gives the images a very surreal quality, undoubtedly changing both in the process. For me the tens of thousands of videos that are being made like this one, the taking of other's music and putting one's own video to it, is creating a new, almost accidental, art form.
