

During his reading Jon Andersen mentioned that a recent respected economic paper reported that the combined earnings of the richest 100 people on the planet was now greater than the entire combined earnings of everyone else on the planet.